Mayor to Port Metro Vancouver: Hands off Granville Island

Management. Mayor Robertson says city is 'strongly opposed' to potential takeover of vital tourist hub

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

Mayor Gregor Robertson issued a statement Thursday opposing a "secret deal" to hand management of Granville Island to Port Metro Vancouver. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/FOR METRO

Mayor Gregor Robertson wants Port Metro Vancouver to steer clear from a plan to control Granville Island after a media report called the transfer to the port a "secret deal that is all but done."

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), the federal agency that has controlled the bustling tourist attraction since 1972, confirmed it is on the hunt for a new manager for the island, but Robertson said in a statement Thursday he does not believe the port is the right choice to run the hub of arts, culture, local food and small business.

"Local decision-making and operations are crucial to Granville Island's revitalization and continued success," Robertson said in the statement.

"The City of Vancouver is strongly opposed to Granville Island being controlled by Port Metro Vancouver, and we made our position clear to the port and the Government of Canada in discussions and correspondence over many months."

The port is Canada's largest, responsible for $184 billion worth of trade annually and more than 90,000 jobs.

But its expansion — it posted record numbers in 2013 — has created controversy in the Lower Mainland, specifically related to concerns over the health and climate impacts of coal exports and oil tankers.

Rather than hand the port control over of "one of Vancouver's most treasured places," Robertson would prefer that the federal government lease or transfer the land to the city, or create an independent local authority to run the island that attracts an estimated 10 million visits annually.

It's not clear whether CMHC is considering the city among its options for management of the island.

"At this time, we cannot discuss details around these options. It is too soon to speculate on any outcome," CMHC spokeswoman Teresa Amoroso said in an email Thursday.

There is no timeline on the decision, which has nothing to do with Emily Carr University vacating its island home in 2016, Amoroso said.

"However, our goal is to ensure the long-term sustainability and success of Granville Island.... The Government of Canada recognizes the importance of Granville Island as being a people place and an important part of the local Vancouver economy."

Port Metro Vancouver spokesman John Parker-Jervis refused to confirm whether the port has negotiated a deal to control the land, but he also refused to deny the Vancouver Sun report that pegged the port as manager-in-waiting.

"The CMHC has a process they're going through considering different options through the management of the island," Parker-Jervis said. "Unfortunately I just can't comment on the process."

Regardless of who controls Granville Island in the future, Vancouver Centre MP Hedy Fry questioned why the decision is shrouded in secrecy and isn't considering public input.

"It is disturbing that the Conservative government continues to make decisions in secrecy regarding important regional institutions without consultations or input from MPs or their constituents," Fry said in a statement.

Fry didn't comment on these particular rumours, but said she is meeting with local business and community leaders to listen to their concerns.

"I will oppose any blatant major commercialization and privatization of the management of Granville Island," Fry said.

Company disputes ban on potential hair-saving device

B.C. Cancer Agency.
Cold caps not permitted during chemotherapy

THANDI FLETCHER
thandi.fletcher@metronews.ca

The company behind a device that claims to prevent hair loss from chemotherapy is challenging the B.C. Cancer Agency on its policy that prohibits patients from using the technology during treatment.

The move comes after Vancouver breast cancer patient Heidi Hare told Metro about her frustration that she may not be allowed to try scalp cooling when she starts chemotherapy in two weeks.

Linda Minuk, a Winnipeg lawyer and president of Cold Comfort Canada, which distributes the U.K.-made Paxman Coolers scalp cooling system in this country, said she was shocked that B.C. cancer patients are prohibited from using the device.

"I don't think we've heard of such an intense reaction from any cancer agency," Minuk, also a cancer survivor, told Metro.

Scalp cooling, also known as cold caps, involves wearing a tight-fitting hat chilled between -26 C and -40 C, which works by shrinking blood vessels and reducing the amount of chemotherapy drug that reaches hair follicles. Some patients have used it with success and managed to keep their hair during chemo.

When Hare found out about it, she immediately wanted to try it. But her optimism faded when she found out the cancer agency no longer allows patients to use the device due to a "lack of definitive evidence supporting the cold caps," as well as "space issues" in their chemotherapy units.

Minuk disagreed with the agency's argument about a lack of evidence supporting cold caps, citing several recent scientific studies about its safety.

The Paxman system was also approved by Health Canada as a licenced medical device in 2011, she said.

Last week, Minuk wrote a letter and couriered a package of documents about scalp cooling to the B.C. Cancer Agency urging the organization to reconsider its position. A spokeswoman for the B.C. Cancer Agency confirmed to Metro the agency has received the package, but said it could not provide further comment until it has had time to review the documents.

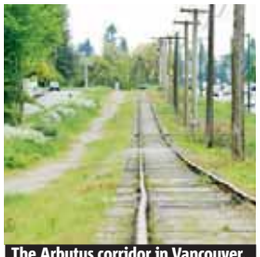
CP demands community gardens removed



The Arbutus corridor in Vancouver.
JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO FILE

Locals may love biking or walking through the beautifully kept community gardens along the Arbutus corridor, but CP Rail is serious when it says it wants those and any other unauthorized structures removed by July 31.

CP wrote a letter to residents demanding they clear its property of any encroachments so it can move forward with fixing the tracks and potentially using the prime real estate to teach train operators or store empty cars, spokesman Ed Greenberg said Thursday.

The property has for years been used as a de facto greenway from False Creek to the Fraser River.

Maureen Ryan, a co-ordinator of the award-winning Cypress Community Garden near the train tracks, was shocked to see almost all of the garden would have to be removed to comply with CP's request.

"It actually means sort of a blood bath," Ryan said, adding that the city-licensed garden was operating under the impression most of it fell on city land.

Ryan hopes CP and the city can resolve their problems and preserve the "fabulous public resource."

CP's activity on the land comes after unsuccessful negotiations with the city on the future of the property.

The city wants CP to leave the land alone so residents can enjoy it as a greenway until light rail transit is viable for the property in the future, Coun. Tony Tang said Thursday.

But CP's Greenberg assured Metro they do indeed plan to proceed with clearing the land and want residents to transplant the gardens. CP remains open to continued discussions with Vancouver, he added.

Keep your love lock down

Councillor wants space for 'love locks'

They're cute, they're a symbol of undying love and they keep getting unceremoniously chopped off Vancouver fences.

But one Vancouver councillor wants the city to break up with the bolt cutters and commit to a permanent home for the city's love locks to counter the no-fun image.

NPA Coun. George Affleck will propose that staff work with the park board, developers, business associations and residents to find a place for the love locks, a worldwide trend where lovers fasten a padlock to a fence to profess their devotion.

"It's happening all over the world and it's kind of cute and nice," Affleck said.

The first crop of locks sprouted on the Burrard Bridge but was removed by the city over safety concerns.

After a second batch along Northeast False Creek was removed last week, Affleck decided to bring forward his motion. Council will vote on it next week.

Signed, sealed ...

VANOC's legacy in secrecy

Vancouver's 2010 Winter Olympics organizing committee claims it broke even on an almost $1.9-billion operating budget, but its chair wouldn't explain why the dissolution took an extra two years.

John Furlong, while still VANOC CEO, told an IOC meeting in July 2011 in South Africa that VANOC would "be no longer" by 2012.

Chair Ken Dobell told Metro by email: "There are legal requirements in a dissolution process, and it takes the time it takes."

The board met June 27 to close the books on a Games that were rocked by a recession. The July 3 report mentioned the nearly $188-million figure of extra federal and B.C. funding that was also in a December 2010 VANOC financial report.

More information awaits, but it is off-limits to the public until 2025. City manager Penny Ballem, also a VANOC director, agreed to keep board minutes and financial details sealed in the Vancouver archives for 15 years under a November 2010 contract with VANOC and the Canadian Olympic Committee. VANOC was exempt from the freedom of information law.

Downtown Eastside survivors' totem uniting the community

Seeking funding. Pole dedicated to victims of head tax, internment, homelessness, more

MATT KIELTYKA
matt.kieltyka@metronews.ca

Skundaal and three apprentice carvers have been working feverishly on a Downtown Eastside survivors' totem pole, which is seeking funding through a Kickstarter campaign. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/FOR METRO

Like the Bear Mother at the base of a totem pole, a Vancouver artist hopes her latest project will provide strength to the Downtown Eastside.

Skundaal, Bill Reid's only female apprentice, and three apprentice carvers have been whittling away on a pole dedicated to communities that have struggled for survival.

After the totem's completion, it will be installed somewhere in the Downtown Eastside — the location has been kept secret — as a symbol of inclusion between aboriginals, Chinese Head Tax survivors, victims of Japanese internment, the homeless and those currently facing gentrification and other issues.

For Skundaal, a Haida and Coast Salish artist and residential-school survivor, the project has taken on a life of its own since she was introduced to the idea in December.

"Initially I wasn't going to do anything because I thought my carving days were over. I carve in metal now," she said.

"I didn't know this was going to be the survivors' pole," she said. "It just really knocked the wind out of my sails; it triggered something in me. Everybody is down here for a reason. Whatever it is, I'm glad I ended up here because this is the greatest community around."

It's become a true grassroots project, with the Portland Hotel Society donating studio space, the Four Host First Nations chiefs giving their blessing and community leaders and politicians from all walks of life attending the launch of a Kickstarter campaign last weekend.

Sacred Circle Society is hoping to raise $15,000 by Aug. 3 to pay the artists and organize the community launch and totem raising in September.

As of Thursday afternoon, 42 backers had pledged more than $4,300.

‘Miracle baby’ inspires mom in her battle against cancer

Against the odds.
A high-risk birth, a six-months-to-live diagnosis, a story of unconditional love

thandi.fletcher@metronews.ca

Even when the pain becomes unbearable, cancer patient Ana Mendoza said one glance at her two-year-old son Nathan makes it all go away.

“He’s my miracle baby,” the North Vancouver mom told Metro from her bed at Lion’s Gate Hospital. “I tell him every day.”

Nathan may not understand what his mom means when she says that, but Mendoza said she never wants him to forget how he helped save her life.

Mendoza was 17 weeks pregnant with Nathan when, during a routine checkup with her doctor, she and husband Victor Ulanday received the shocking and devastating diagnosis that she had Stage II cervical cancer.

“The first thing they wanted us to do was terminate the pregnancy,” she said. “It was very intimidating because it seemed like I had no other choice.”

Faced with the seemingly impossible decision, Mendoza, 40, said she couldn’t fathom losing the pregnancy. If it wasn’t for Nathan, Mendoza said she wouldn’t have known she had cancer.

When an oncologist suggested trying a low dose of chemotherapy during the pregnancy to prevent the tumour from growing, Mendoza agreed to try. But seven weeks later, doctors were shocked to find the tumour, initially two centimeters, had continued growing to almost seven centimetres.

At 28 weeks, Mendoza gave birth to a severely premature baby boy. Soon after, she started full-dose chemo and radiation, but still managed to spend every other waking moment beside Nathan’s incubator, praying he would survive.

Eventually both Mendoza and Nathan were discharged and went back home to be with the rest of the family, including the couple’s daughter, five-year-old Lanna.

Both seemed to be healthy until early last year when Mendoza suddenly developed a severe pain in her back, followed by lumps in her neck a few months later.

The cancer was back and she was given six months left to live.

Now a year later, Mendoza said she is still taking her battle day by day. Ulanday said he hopes his son will one day understand how deeply his mother cared for him.

“Your mommy always loved you,” he said, fighting back tears.

Eternal love

“Your mommy is always going to be there loving you.”

Blade Runner a 'paradox': Physician

Oscar Pistorius is a "paradox" whose past triumphs as a sprinter crossing the finish line with raised arms contrasted sharply with the daily, severe limitations that he endured because of his disability, a physician testified Thursday at the runner's murder trial.

Wayne Derman, a professor of sport and exercise medicine at the University of Cape Town, said in court that the contrast likely contributed to stress and anxiety for Pistorius, who fatally shot girlfriend Reeva Steenkamp through a closed toilet door in his home.

Kurdish leader calls for referendum

With large parts of Iraq in militant hands, a top Kurdish leader called on regional lawmakers Thursday to lay the groundwork for a referendum on independence — a vote that would likely spell the end of a unified Iraq.

The recent blitz by Sunni militants across much of northern and western Iraq has given the country's 5 million Kurds — who have long agitated for independence — their best chance ever to seize disputed territory and move closer to a decades-old dream of their own state.

Ukrainian president shakes up military

Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko shook up his faltering military Thursday, appointing a new defence minister and top general while speaking angrily about the years of decay and corruption that left the forces unable to deal effectively with the well-armed eastern insurgency.

His tougher tone, analysts say, reflects public pressure to continue the fight against the insurgents in the regions bordering Russia — even with a rickety military that's had little success.

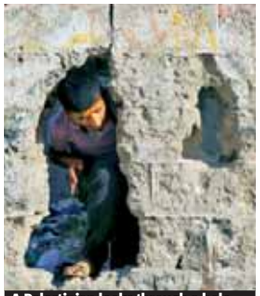
Israel bulks up forces on Gaza border

Hamas. Increased wave of rocket fire out of Gaza has further stoked tensions since three Israeli teens were found dead last week



A Palestinian looks through a hole near a Hamas training camp following an Israeli airstrike. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli military rushed additional forces to its southern border with the Gaza Strip on Thursday, vowing to halt a growing wave of rocket fire from the Palestinian territory, while new clashes erupted in east Jerusalem in response to the death of an Arab boy who Palestinians say was killed by Israeli extremists.

Israel said the show of force on the Gaza border was a defence measure. But persistent rocket fire raised the prospects of a tough Israeli response, with the military saying more than 40 rockets or mortar shells were fired from Hamas-controlled Gaza on Thursday.

Tensions have been high since three Israeli teenagers were abducted in the West Bank on June 12, sparking a massive manhunt that ended with the discovery of their bodies early this week. Israel has blamed Hamas for the abductions and launched a crackdown on the Islamic militant group in the West Bank, drawing rocket attacks out of Gaza and Israeli airstrikes in a near-daily cycle of retaliation. Cave-in traps 11 miners in Honduras gold mine

Rescuers work to enter a gold mine where miners are trapped after a landslide in southern Honduras. FERNANDO ANTONIO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rescue workers using picks and shovels cleared rubble Thursday trying to reach 11 miners trapped by a cave-in the previous day inside a wildcat gold mine in southern Honduras.

The men were trapped about 80 metres into the old gold mine in the town of El Corpus, fire department spokesman Oscar Triminio said.

The mine partially collapsed shortly after 22 miners entered to search for gold Wednesday, but half were able to get out on their own, Triminio said.

He said rescue crews were not using heavy machinery because the mine "is unstable and could further collapse."

National Geological Institute director Agapito Rodriguez said that oxygen inside the mine was scarce and that three miners near the entrance were getting oxygen through an air duct.

He said those three had been able to communicate by shouting to rescue workers.

Mayor Luis Rueda said there are more than 50 mines in the area, some of them as much as 200 metres underground.

Sex killer Bernardo engaged?

'Love' behind bars. There's nothing the government can do about it, says Justice Minister

Federal Justice Minister Peter MacKay says there's nothing the government can do to prevent Paul Bernardo from communicating with a woman who is reportedly planning to marry the convicted killer.

"That's not really an issue before the Justice Department," MacKay said Thursday.

"There hasn't been an action. There hasn't been preventative steps taken to prevent contact ... We can't stop a person from communicating through letters and emails unless there is something that is seen as harassing or criminal in its intent."

Convicted killer Paul Bernardo is serving an indeterminate sentence for the slayings of two schoolgirls, a dozen rapes and more than two dozen other sex offences — but there are still women who reportedly want to marry him.

The latest is reported to be a 30-year-old university graduate from London, Ont., who began corresponding with Bernardo last fall, according to QMI news agency.

Corrections Canada declines to comment on individual cases. But Tim Danson, a lawyer for the families of the murdered schoolgirls, has plenty to say. "He should not be given any privileges," Danson told Torstar News Service on Thursday.

He also said the woman who considers herself to be Bernardo's fiancée needs plenty of help. "People close to her have to reach out to her and save her from herself," he said. "Just the thought of it is disturbing."

Still, there are plenty of women who struggle to make contact with Bernardo through letters. One website for prisoners' families features a hot discussion on whether it's right to try to make contact with Bernardo. "I write to Paul all the time, I send him cards and no I dont have a fetish for concrete!" a woman who identified herself as "shoes" wrote. "I have read many books on his crimes and for some reason i hold compassion for him. Its deep in my bones and i cant let it go."

Another woman, who identified herself as "brandy99," wrote that she can see a difference between Bernardo the man and Bernardo the criminal. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE/WITH FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

Marriage to a convict

- If the marriage did take place, Corrections Canada would determine if Bernardo would be allowed to meet with his wife behind bars.
- Prisoners are permitted private visits of up to 72 hours once every two months. A former inmate told Torstar News Service that prisoners often are able to increase that visiting time in swaps with other inmates.

Bride-to-be

'Paul's girl' believes he is innocent

In a report published on Thursday, the Quebecor-owned QMI does not name the 30-year-old bride-to-be. It says that even her family doesn't believe the ceremony behind bars will ever take place.

According to QMI, the couple first met last fall after she wrote Bernardo, and the bride-to-be believes he is innocent even though he made videos of his victims in captivity.

"He has convinced her that he didn't do this (rapes or murders)," her father told QMI.

QMI says the bride-to-be has a tattoo on her ankle that says "Paul's girl," and the engagement has caused tensions within her family.

Crown agrees to psych assessment for alleged New Brunswick shooter

A young man charged with fatally shooting three RCMP officers and wounding two others in Moncton, N.B., last month will return to court July 31 after undergoing a psychiatric assessment.

Justin Bourque, 24, is facing three first-degree murder charges and two counts of attempted murder. He has not entered pleas on the charges.

Judge Irwin Lambert said he received from the defence on Thursday an affidavit signed by Victor Bourque, the accused's father, outlining why he believed a psychiatric assessment was justified.

The Crown agreed to the defence request to send Bourque for a psychiatric assessment, which will be conducted at the Shepody Healing Centre in Dorchester, N.B.

Police 'move forward' in case of missing trio

Calgary police say closed-circuit video and tips from the public are bringing them closer to understanding what happened to a missing five-year-old boy and his grandparents.

But homicide unit Staff-Sgt. Doug Andrus said investigators still don't have any suspects they can name.

"But ... we have information that's allowed us to move forward with this investigation," Andrus said at a news conference Thursday.

"Are we closer than yesterday? I would say we are."

Nathan O'Brien and Alvin and Kathy Liknes were reported missing Monday and police believe their disappearance is suspicious.

The boy had been at his grandparents' on a sleepover after the couple held an estate sale at their home on the weekend. Police have said there was evidence the three may have been forced from the home. An Amber Alert remained in effect.

Andrus said officers have closed-circuit video from homes and business near the Liknes' house and it's helping with the investigation.

He said police are also getting information from the public, including the people who attended the estate sale.

Police had asked anyone who attended the sale and bought something to bring a photo of the item to a community centre Thursday and speak with investigators.

Andrus estimated as many as 300 people attended the sale. He said between 20 and 30 had gone to the community centre as of Thursday afternoon.

"I would say it is less a mystery to us. I can't comment on the degree. Again, we are getting good information coming in and we are going through it and determining the relevance to the investigation," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BlackBerry selling German R&D assets

Waterloo, Ont. The tarnished homegrown tech brand tries to regain some of its shine with push to become profitable by 2016

BlackBerry CEO John Chen shows off the new Passport phone after the company's annual general meeting in Waterloo, Ont., last month. DAVE CHIDLEY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

BlackBerry is selling its research and development department in Germany to Volkswagen Infotainment, a subsidiary of the automaker that makes interactive technology built into vehicle dashboards.

The deal will shift about 200 BlackBerry employees in Bochum, Germany, to Volkswagen.

The move comes as the Waterloo, Ont.-based smartphone maker pushes ahead with a plan to become profitable by its 2016 financial year.

Volkswagen will assume BlackBerry's leases for offices at the Bochum University Center and the Design Support Lab.

Research and development centres are typically shrouded in secrecy for competitive reasons, and BlackBerry declined to outline what products it fostered there.

Is your child still buying unauthorized apps? Don't blame us, argues Amazon

Amazon says that it is prepared to go to court against the Federal Trade Commission to defend itself against charges that it has not done enough to prevent children from making unauthorized in-app purchases.

The FTC alleged in a draft lawsuit released by Amazon that unauthorized charges by children on Amazon tablets have amounted to millions of dollars.

Seattle-based Amazon.com Inc. said in a letter Tuesday to FTC chairwoman Edith Ramirez that it had already refunded money to parents who complained. It also said its parental controls go beyond what the FTC required from Apple when it imposed a $32.5-million US fine on the company in January over a similar matter.

Amazon's Kindle Free Time app can limit how much time children spend on Kindle tablets as well as require a personal identification number for in-app purchases, said Amazon spokesman Craig Berman.

"Parents can say — at any time, for every purchase that's made — that a PIN is required," he said.

By not agreeing to a settlement with the FTC, the company faces a potential lawsuit by the FTC in federal district court.

Indiegogo's mobile app comes to Canada first

Finally! For once, our country gets something before the rest of the world. Okay, so it's an app for a crowdfunding platform ... We'll take it

Indiegogo's mobile app is available in Canada only, for now. AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Indiegogo, which bills itself as the world's largest crowdfunding platform, is looking to grow with a move into mobile apps — starting in Canada.

The San Francisco-based company announced Thursday that Canadians are getting early access to its first mobile app, which is now available on Apple's App Store. The app will be rolling out to other countries in a couple of months, said Indiegogo CEO Slava Rubin.

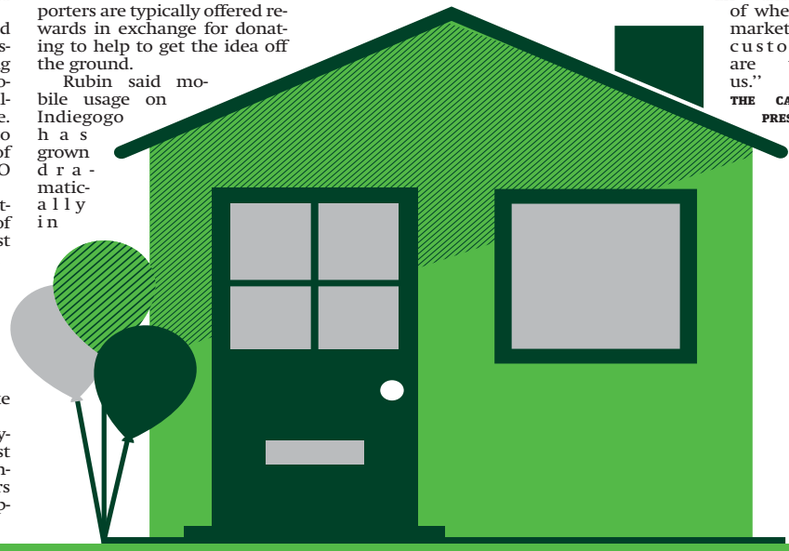
"Canada is a really important country for us, in terms of volume, it's the second-largest country for us in the world ... and we send money to 70 to 100 countries a week," said Rubin, who added that an app for Google Android devices is expected before year's end. "The Canadian users have been great with their feedback and we feel like it's a great opportunity."

Entrepreneurs — or anyone with an idea — can post a fundraising drive on Indiegogo and seek supporters to help pay for their plan. Supporters are typically offered rewards in exchange for donating to help to get the idea off the ground.

Rubin said mobile usage on Indiegogo has grown dramatically in recent years and the new app is designed to help users support or launch campaigns on the go.

"We see the mobile app as an extension of where we're moving forward with our innovation," he said.

"I would say if we were starting Indiegogo from scratch today and there was nothing else existing, there's a good chance we would go mobile-only. Adding apps is just an extension of where the market and customers are taking us." THE CANADIAN PRESS



Google. 'Freedom to be forgotten' online versus the freedom of the press

Google's removal of search results in Europe is drawing accusations of press censorship, as stories from some of the continent's most prominent news outlets begin vanishing. The U.S. Internet giant said Thursday it is getting 1,000 requests a day to scrub results.

The U.S. firm must comply with a May ruling from the European Union's top court that enables citizens to ask for the removal of embarrassing personal information that pops up on a search of their names. Among links to vanish were stories on a soccer referee who resigned after a scandal in 2010, French office workers making post-it art, a couple having sex on a train and a lawyer facing a fraud trial.

At least three British media outlets, including the BBC, said Google notified them search results in Europe would not contain some links to their publications. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Europe only

The purge of search results applies to Google's local search pages covering the EU's 28 member nations and four other European countries, encompassing more than 500 million people.

- The company has a 90 per cent market share for searches in Europe. Those who switch to the firm's American domain, Google.com, will find unaltered search results.

1 Go Clara Hughes, go! The mental health crusader completed her epic 110-day, 11,000-kilometre Clara's Big Ride across Canada this week, finishing in Ottawa on Canada Day. She tweeted, "THANK YOU CANADA!! It is official the last km has been ridden!! #ClarasBigRide #struggle #joy #relief." No, thank you Clara. You've helped change the conversation around mental health.

2 Lowry re-sign leaves Raptors on a high. Raptors basketball junkies went nuts with the news Kyle Lowry has re-signed with Toronto. Make no mistake, this is one of the biggest re-signings in Raptors history, and further evidence the team is going through a true revival. Raps Global Ambassador Drake ought to write an ode to Lowry on behalf of the fans.

3 #TweetYourUnpopularOpinion. This hashtag became popular this week with tweets like "I think Christina Aguilera is a better singer than Beyoncé" and "I think butterflies are creepy." Mine: "Ketchup chips are the best." Sorry not sorry.

4 Shirtless, but not speechless. When Mayor Rob Ford marched in a Canada Day parade, he faced cheers — and jeers — including a shirtless jogger heckler (later identified as a teacher named Joe Killoran)-turned-instant online celebrity/hero who unleashed an angry tirade at Ford that went viral. Every dude has now taken up jogging, and they're leaving their shirts at home.

5 Thicke skin. When you plan hashtag conversations on Twitter, bear in mind things can go horribly wrong. Exhibit A: The Twitter Q&A #AskThicke with Robin Thicke this week that was bombarded by questions about the crooner's misogynistic lyrics and marital woes. It's time for Robin to go to dear old dad Alan for help. #PersonalityMakeoverThicke.

6 Historic Wimbledon. Canada is ace right now, as Milos Raonic and Eugenie Bouchard are the first Canadian singles players in the Open era to reach the Wimbledon semifinals (and Bouchard is the first to reach the finals). Awesome! This country is raining tennis balls, and no one double-fault me for serving that.

7 Moment app. Always making excuses for why you need to check your mobile? Well, a new free app helps you track just how much time you waste on your phone. Moment app helps smartphone users monitor their usage and perhaps change their habits, and live in the real world more. I checked my phone only 10 times in the course of writing this blurb.

8 Thunderstruck Lakefield, Ont., man Tim Rollwagen was photographing a storm on Canada Day when lightning struck the wire fence he was on. He tweeted seconds after, "Don't hold on to a wire fence when trying to get storm pics, just got blasted off by a lightning bolt that struck it. #onstorm #shaking." Now, ER gave him a clean bill of health, but he won't ever forget his July 1 fireworks.

GONE FISHIN'

Trout fishing in Gifu prefecture

Ukai is a traditional method of catching small Japanese trout by manipulating seabirds called cormorants in the Nagaragawa River. It's been taking place every year in Japan since the 700s.

Master trainers of cormorants dressed in ancient costume freely manipulate 10 to 12 wild sea cormorants to skilfully catch small trout.

This fishing is performed every night between May 11 and Oct. 15 except during a full moon or in heavy rain.

The only illuminations are the pine torches lit on the boats.

Master trainers of cormorants belong to the Imperial Household Agency, and an important duty of theirs is to make offerings of small trout to the Emperor.

It is prescribed that in each generation the eldest son succeeds his father, and these men live with cormorants in order to train them every day.

How it all goes down

Beginning at dusk, each fisherman leads about a dozen cormorants on leashes who swim alongside the boat and dive under the water to catch fish by swallowing them whole.

- The fish are kept in a special pouch in the cormorant's throat to be retrieved later.
- The fish are prevented from being swallowed by a snare around the neck of the bird.

Enjoy the Apes of summer

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Hot weather, cool movies. Sci-fi adventure, biopics, mature romantic comedy and sex are all on moviegoers' menu

Richard: Mark, I was a huge Planet of the Apes fan as a kid. Loved the rubber masks, the twisty endings and the "YOU MANIACS! YOU BLEW IT UP!" scene still blows my mind. Saw them over and over, and even enjoyed the bad ones like Conquest of the Planet of the Apes.

Today, as an adult, I have a full-sized Cornelius bust with faux chimpanzee hair in my office. So, given my obsession with simian cinema, my inner 14-year-old goes a bit ape every time I see the Dawn of the Planet of the Apes trailer. What's got you excited this summer?

Mark: I'm a Planet of the Apes fan, too, Richard. The idea of animals acting like humans is a welcome change from my life in show business, where humans act like animals.

I'm really looking forward to Lucy, starring Scarlett Johansson in a Luc Besson revenge/action flick. This is Scarlett's moment, and this is going to be the movie to make her a megastar. The trailer made me spill my popcorn!

RC: Johansson is doing interesting work these days, splitting her time between rock 'em, sock 'em movies like Captain America: The Winter Soldier and smaller movies like Chef and Under the Skin.

Michael Fassbender has a similar career arc. We last saw him in X-Men: Days of Future Past. Next up he's in Frank, a strange indie based on the life of Frank Sidebottom, a real-life English musician who wore a giant papier-mâché head complete with painted-on eyes, ruby red lips and slicked-back hair.

I love Fassbender for still taking chances on movies like this when he could easily cash big Hollywood paycheques time after time.

MB: Sounds like one strange biopic, Richard! A more commercial variant I'm looking forward to is Get On Up, the James Brown story starring Chadwick Boseman. The Godfather of Soul never wore a papier-mâché head, but he was big on ermine capes and tantrums, so this should be a lot of fun. And what a soundtrack it will be!

For life lessons and laughs, there's And So It Goes, a mature rom-com starring Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton. Bring your CARP card for discounts on soft-chew treats from the concession stand.

RC: I don't have a CARP card .... yet. I do like soft chew candies, however. As far as movies go, I'm curious about Guardians of the Galaxy. So many of the summer's blockbusters have been oh-so-serious affairs that I think this one promises some good laughs and action.

MB: The cast suggests it might be more than your typical sci-fi adventure. But it's Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz in Sex Tape that gets me hot. Big laughs, lots of action, at least of the horizontal variety.

Flick picks

When the Reel Guys aren't at the movies, one of their favourite things to do is talk about going to the movies.

- This week Richard and Mark have a look at talking apes, a vengeful Scarlett Johansson, and a singer with a papier-mâché head and a talking raccoon.
- So throw some popcorn on the BBQ, crank up the air conditioning and enjoy the Reel Guys' most anticipated films of the summer season.

Theft. Fans left fuming after famed Fault in Our Stars bench goes missing

Fans of The Fault in Our Stars discovered that a canal-side bench in Amsterdam that's the site of a key scene in the romantic drama had gone missing as they traced a tour of movie-centric moments around the Dutch capital.

The disappearance went undetected by city authorities as the bench was swiftly replaced by a flowerpot, filling up the gap in street furniture.

"It's a bit embarrassing, because we do keep good track of them, but it's gone all right," city spokesman Stephan van der Hoek told The Hollywood Reporter. "Keep your eyes on eBay," he remarked, with an eye on the seat's possible eventual destination.

The city was tipped off after film fans started making inquiries as to the missing bench's whereabouts.

Released in June, Josh Boone's adaptation of the John Green young adult novel stars Shailene Woodley and Ansel Elgort as the teens who meet at a cancer patients' support group in the U.S.

The pair then visits Amsterdam to track down an elusive author.

As well as sitting on the canal-side bench, the two share a kiss in the attic of the Anne Frank House museum, though real tours of the attraction don't ascend into the loft space.

And while the bench was likely removed with intent, the flowerpot may have been an act of serendipity rather than deliberate decoy, Der Hoek said: Neighbours often club together to improve their own environs.

Whitey: United States of America v. James J. Bulger

Director. Joe Berlinger

From Academy Award-nominated director Joe Berlinger, Whitey: United States of America v. James J. Bulger is a sweeping and revelatory documentary film that follows the trial of the infamous gangster James "Whitey" Bulger, using the courtroom action as a springboard to examine accusations of multi-faceted corruption within our nation's law enforcement and legal systems.

Action & Adventure

Earth to Echo

Director. Dave Green

Stars. Teo Halm, Astro

Tuck, Munch and Alex are a trio of inseparable friends whose lives are about to change. Their neighbourhood is being destroyed by a highway construction project that is forcing their families to move away. But before the boys begin receiving strange signals on their phones. Convinced something bigger is going on, they team up with another school friend, Emma, and set out to look for the source of their phone signals.

Drama/Comedy

Words and Pictures

Director. Fred Schepisi

Stars. Clive Owen, Juliette Binoche

Words and Pictures stars the engaging duo of Juliette Binoche and Clive Owen. Prep school English teacher Jack Marcus (Owen) laments his students' obsession with social media rather than engaging with the power of the written word. A one-time literary star, Jack has not published in years filling his spare time with drink. He meets his match in Dina Delsanto (Binoche) — an abstract painter and new teacher on campus.

Drama

Tracks

Director. John Curran

Stars. Mia Wasikowska, Adam Driver

Director John Curran and the producers of The King's Speech bring you the film Tracks, which tells the true story of Robyn Davidson (Wasikowska), a young woman who leaves her life in the city to make a solo trek through almost 2,000 miles of sprawling Australian desert. Accompanied by only her dog and four unpredictable camels, she sets off on a life-changing journey of self-discovery.

Horror

The Sacrament

Director. Ti West

Stars. Amy Seimetz, Joe Swanberg

From acclaimed writer/director Ti West (The House of the Devil) and master of horror Eli Roth (Hostel), The Sacrament follows two journalists as they set out to document their friend's journey to find his missing sister. They travel to "Eden Parish," a self-sustained utopia. At the centre of this small, religious, socialist community is a mysterious leader known only as "Father."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams in 2004. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Gosling and McAdams weren't so cuddly on the set of The Notebook

To mark the 10th anniversary of The Notebook, surely it's appropriate to wax sentimental over the now-iconic love story, or reminisce about the subsequent off-screen romance between co-stars Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams.

Or, if you're Notebook director Nick Cassavetes, maybe it's time to tell the world just how much the co-stars disliked each other during filming.

In an interview with VH1, Cassavetes reveals that at one point, their bickering interrupted filming. "Maybe I'm not supposed to tell this story, but they were really not getting along one day on set. Really not. And Ryan came to me, and there's 150 people standing in this big scene, and he says, 'Nick come here.' And he's doing a scene with Rachel and he says, 'Would you take her out of here and bring in another actress to read off camera with me?' I said, 'What?' He says, 'I can't. I can't do it with her. I'm just not getting anything from this.'"

How did Cassavetes deal with that one? Apparently, he arranged for the stars to, er, talk it out. "We went into a room with a producer; they started screaming and yelling at each other. I walked out. At that point I was smoking cigarettes. I smoked a cigarette and everybody came out like, 'All right, let's do this.' And it got better after that, you know? They had it out ... I think Ryan respected her for standing up for her character and Rachel was happy to get that out in the open. The rest of the film wasn't smooth sailing, but it was smoother sailing." METRO

Burt Reynolds to bare even more in new memoir

G.P. Putnam's Sons has announced that Burt Reynolds' memoir, But Enough About Me, is set to be released in fall 2015.

The 78-year-old Reynolds promises in a statement to "set the record straight" on everything from his love affairs with Sally Field and Loni Anderson to his Cosmopolitan centrefold from 1972. His films include Deliverance, Boogie Nights and Smokey and the Bandit. Reynolds' book is expected to cover his friendships with Clint Eastwood, Frank Sinatra and Johnny Carson, among others, as well. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Word

Adam Levine takes on his first movie role pro bono

MELINDA TAUB
Metro in New York City

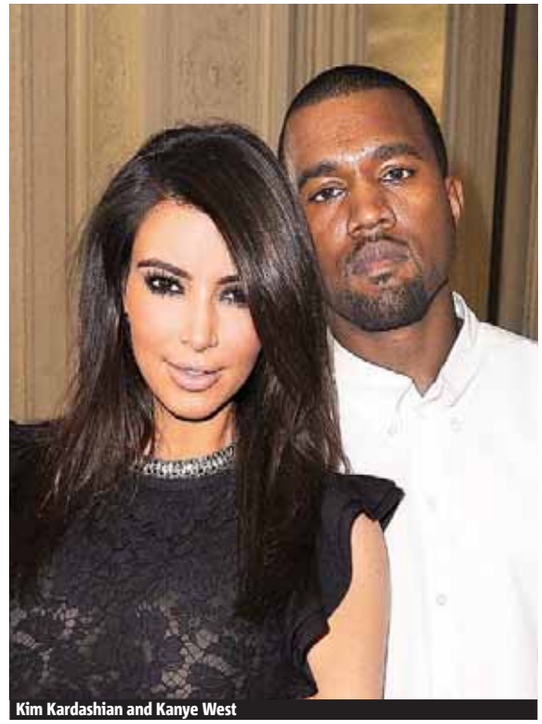
Adam Levine is an attractive person. In fact, being attractive may be the thing he's best at, including being the rock star frontman for Maroon 5. So he should be totally fine monetizing that attractiveness on the silver screen, right?

Not so fast. Levine says he wants to take things slow as he learns his cinematic craft — that's why he took on his role in Begin Again, opposite Keira Knightley, as more or less an unpaid intern.

"I did this movie for no money. I'm very lucky that I'm in that position," he told USA Today. "I want to have good experiences. I don't want to do a bunch of (expletive) that I hate. I want to treat (acting) completely differently because I have the very fortunate luxury of not having to think of this in terms of money."

Between Maroon 5 and The Voice, Levine will probably never have to think of anything in terms of money again, up to and including trips to space, but he is a man of simpler pleasures: His favourite thing about being a rock star is apparently restaurants. Adam Levine loves restaurants. "I can get a reservation at any restaurant in town at any town," he says in awe. "And that's the greatest thing about being me. Because I love to eat at many different restaurants."

So putting this all together, I'm pretty sure Adam Levine will star in my web series if I take him to some restaurants. I've gotta go make some calls.



Kim Kardashian and Kanye West

Kim and Kanye may take Manhattan (for a cool $17M)

Newly married couple Kimye are reportedly apartment hunting in New York City, according to People. West already has an apartment in Soho, but apparently it isn't big enough for him, Kardashian and baby North West. Not to mention the ever-present Keeping Up With The Kardashians camera crew.

Kardashian and her mother Kris reportedly looked at an apartment in Greenwich Village, listed for $17.25 million US. According to the New York Post, the apartment boasts six bedrooms, seven bathrooms, private parking and a garden. The mom and daughter duo also reportedly looked at another apartment, on the penthouse floor, with a pool. Decisions, decisions. METRO

Canadian cutie Jay Baruchel lands comedy series on FXX

Jay Baruchel is headed back to the small screen in a comedy about a hopeless romantic navigating the modern dating world. FXX has reportedly ordered 10 episodes of Man Seeking Woman, which will begin airing in 2015.

According to Variety, the series is based on The Last Girlfriend on Earth, a book of short stories by Saturday Night Live writer Simon Rich.

Rich wrote the pilot with Jonathan Krisel and will executive-produce alongside heavyweights Lorne Michaels and Andrew Singer.

Montreal-based Baruchel stars as Josh Greenberg, a "naive romantic on a desperate quest for love."

Man Seeking Woman marks a return to television for Baruchel, who starred in Judd Apatow's 2001 cult hit series

Liquid Assets

For the love of salmon

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy

My comments last week that I was determined to master the art of barbecuing salmon prompted some of you to send me everything from your own step-by-step instructions to links to YouTube vids.

I took your advice and, while I'm still no Iron Chef, things turned out just fine. Well, eatable at least.

There's a lot to love about salmon. Not only does it taste fantastic, its adaptability with wine continues to chip away at that old wives' tale that claims only whites go with fish. While your favourite glass of lightly-oaked chardonnay or off-dry riesling would make a good match, my palate prefers red.

With its typically round, plump berry flavours, pinot noir is the grape that's the yin to salmon's yang. Originally from France's Burgundy region, it's now grown worldwide with fantastic versions coming out of South America.

Cono Sur's 2013 Bicicleta Pinot Noir ($10.95 - $12.99) from Chile is one for the budget conscious. Soft and juicy with good varietal personality, it goes swimmingly with meatier fish.

Memphis-Style Baby Back Ribs. Our neighbours to the south are celebrating their independence, and you can join in vicariously with this barbecue staple

1. Prepare a grill for medium-low (about 325 F) indirect cooking. In a charcoal grill, this means banking the hot coals to one side of the grill and cooking the ribs on the cooler side. In a gas grill, this means heating the grill with all burners on, but turning off the burners on one side just before putting the food on that side.

2. Remove silver skin from the backs of the ribs, if desired.

3. Place the soaked wood chips directly on the hot charcoals, or in smoking box if using a gas grill (place the box in the grill according to manufacturer directions). Cover the grill.

4. Rub the cut lemons all over the fronts and backs of the ribs, squeezing to release as much juice as possible. Set aside for 5 minutes, then sprinkle the ribs liberally with the barbecue rub. Let sit for 15 minutes.

5. Place the ribs, bone side down, in the centre of the cooking grate over the cooler side of the grill. Cover the grill and cook 1 1/2 to 2 hours, or until the meat is tender and has pulled back from the ends of the bones. Do not open the grill cover for at least the first 30 minutes. After that, if the ribs start to burn at the edges, stack them on top of one another in the very centre of the grill and lower your heat slightly.

6. Twenty minutes before serving, un-stack the ribs if necessary, then brush with barbecue sauce. Remove the ribs from the grill and let rest 10 minutes before cutting into individual or 2- to 3-rib portions.

7. If desired, additional barbecue sauce can be warmed and served alongside the ribs.

Classic Barbecue Rub

1. In bowl, combine all ingredients. Mix well. For a smoother rub, process the ingredients in a spice grinder until well combined and finely ground. The rub can be stored in an airtight container for up to 6 months.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ ELIZABETH KARMEL AUTHOR OF THREE COOKBOOKS, INCLUDING PIZZA ON THE GRILL

Ingredients

- 6 lbs baby back ribs
- 3 cups barbecue wood chips, soaked in water for 1 hour
- 2 lemons, halved
- 1/4 cup barbecue rub (see recipe below)
- 16-oz bottle barbecue sauce

Classic Barbecue Rub

- 3 tbp granulated sugar
- 2 tbsp smoked paprika
- 2 tbsp kosher salt
- 2 tbsp packed dark brown sugar
- 1 tbsp ground cumin
- 1 tbsp ground black pepper
- 1 tbsp onion powder
- 1 tbsp garlic powder
- 2 tsp chili powder
- 1/2 tsp cayenne pepper

Americanize your salad

1. Place potatoes in a large pot. Add enough water to cover potatoes by 1 inch. Add a hefty pinch of salt, then bring to boil. Reduce to a simmer, cover and cook until fork tender, but not falling apart, 12 to 15 minutes. Drain the potatoes, then spread them on a rimmed baking sheet. Sprinkle with salt and black pepper, then sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the vinegar. Set aside to cool.

2. In a large bowl, whisk together the remaining 2 tablespoons of vinegar, the olive oil, mustard and tarragon. When the potatoes have cooled, add them to the bowl, as well as the cheddar, blueberries and roasted red peppers. Stir gently to coat with the dressing.

3. Chill for 1 hour to let flavours develop.

Ingredients

- 24 oz small red potatoes, halved or quartered
- 24 oz small purple potatoes, halved or quartered
- Kosher salt and ground black pepper
- 4 tbsp red wine vinegar, divided
- 3 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 tbsp Dijon mustard
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh tarragon
- 8 oz goat milk cheddar or gouda, diced
- 2 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 cup diced roasted red peppers

Small Stage point 5

The surprise hit of last fall returns for a second round of knockout performances — Small Stage point 5 runs July 4 to 5 with several shows nightly at The Emerald. This one-of-a-kind spectacle features an eclectic collection of talented artists converging on one stage to showcase their fancy footwork. The show pairs up five local independent musicians with five in-demand dance artists for an evening fuelled by inventive collaborations. For more information visit: movent.ca.

The Underwear Affair

The 9th annual Underwear Affair takes place this weekend with hundreds of men and women clad in underwear hitting the streets of Vancouver, either walking 5K, running the 10K race, or taking part in the Booty Hunt. Participating runners are helping raise funds for life-saving research for cancers below the waist at the BC Cancer Foundation. Get in on the action, donate or cheer them on. Learn more about the event here: uncoverthecure.org.

The Clearly Contacts Open

Pop by Kitsilano Beach this weekend and take in one of North America's largest volleyball tournaments featuring players from destinations worldwide. Now in its 23rd year, the tournament is free to spectators and features a $15,000 prize to winners. There will also be activities and entertainment (a youth volleyball tournament, beer garden and more). For details visit: clearlycontactsopen.volleyballbc.org.

Food Cart Fest

Food Cart Fest is back for another summer full of food-fuelled fun in the heart of False Creek's Olympic Village. On from 12 to 5 p.m. every Sunday throughout the summer, this festival gathers over 20 of Vancouver's top food carts presented by Arrival and The Streetfood Vancouver Society. It's a full afternoon of food, fun, and sun complemented by community markets, live music and DJs, craft food vendors, live entertainment activities, and more. Find all the details at: foodcartfest.com.

Eat Local

Score plenty of locally made and grown goods at one of Vancouver's farmers markets this weekend. Check out the Trout Lake Farmers Market before heading over to the West End, Kitsilano or Kerrisdale farmers' markets. Main Street Farmers Market is also up and running, featuring its own Berry Festival for the month of July. For all the details and to learn more about other local markets, visit: eatlocal.org.

Coming Up: SUNWAVE

Plan on attending the next edition of Vancouver's new sunny outdoor electronic performances (July 12) as part of SUNWAVE. It's a waterfront musical showcase featuring a stacked lineup of international and Canadian artists. The venue is located five minutes from Wreck Beach at Koerner's Secret Garden, a beautiful venue that boasts plenty of BBQ bites, full-bar, organic drink specials, and plenty of great company. Find more info here: sunwavebc.com.

Vrbata lured by prospect of playing with Sedin twins

Other teams probably could have offered Radim Vrbata $10 million over two years. What the Vancouver Canucks had that the competition didn't was the chance to play with Daniel and Henrik Sedin.

So when general manager Jim Benning suggested it, Vrbata took it as another reason to sign with the Canucks.

"He was saying that they were looking for somebody to play with (the) Sedins and that they think I could be the guy," Vrbata said on a conference call Thursday. "I feel like with the way they play and the way they see the game, it's something that would probably suit my game. Yeah, it was real interesting to have that chance."

It'll be up to coach Willie Desjardins to form the lines, Benning said, but it was part of the plan to give Vrbata an opportunity with the Sedins. Benning likes that Vrbata can read plays and jump into holes.

Vrbata, who had 20 goals and 31 assists in his final season with the defensive-minded Arizona Coyotes, will be counted on to produce more if he's Vancouver's top-line right-winger. He doesn't mind that pressure.

"If you play with players like (the) Sedins, you know that you will get your chances," Vrbata said. "When I think about the way they play, that kind of suits my game, I think. They like lots of give-and-gos and they like to get open for each other. I think that's something that I like to do, too." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bouchard makes Wimbledon final

Beats Halep to advance. Third time's the charm as Canadian phenom reaches first Grand Slam title match

Eugenie Bouchard serves to Simona Halep during their women's singles semifinal match on Thursday at Wimbledon
CARL COURT/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Canada's Eugenie Bouchard stumbled in her first two Grand Slam semifinal appearances this year.

The third time proved to be the charm Thursday at the All England Club.

Bouchard defeated Romania's Simona Halep 7-6 (5), 6-2 to become the first Canadian to advance to the women's singles final at Wimbledon. It was the latest achievement in what has already been a historic run for Bouchard at the sport's most prestigious event.

"After doing well in the past few (Grand) Slams, I've been believing since the beginning of the tournament that I can do really well," she said. "I'm just trying to take it one match at a time. It's really important not to get ahead of ourselves.

"I totally feel like I belong, and I'm just so excited for the next match."

The 20-year-old from Westmount, Que., has yet to lose a set in her six matches so far at Wimbledon. No Canadian had ever reached the women's singles quarter-finals here in the Open era — never mind the final — before Bouchard.

There could be a Canadian in the men's singles final as well. Milos Raonic of Thornhill, Ont., will take on Switzerland's Roger Federer on Friday with a berth in Sunday's championship on the line.

The 13th-seeded Bouchard will next face sixth-seeded Petra Kvitova on Saturday.

"To get to my first Grand Slam final, it's very exciting. It's what I've worked so long for, you know," Bouchard said. "So I'm just proud of myself for today's effort."

Kvitova, the 2011 Wimbledon champion, beat fellow Czech left-hander Lucie Safarova 7-6 (6), 6-1 in the other semifinal.

Kvitova beat Bouchard 6-3, 6-2 in their only previous meeting, a second-round match at the Rogers Cup in Toronto last August. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"My job is not done, I want to go another step further. So I'm going to stay focused and enjoy it after."

Lions quarterback Kevin Glenn passes against the Eskimos during the first half of their season opener in Vancouver last weekend. DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lions, Als both look to bounce back

CFL. B.C. QB Glenn will call the shots behind inexperienced guard after opening day injury

No one needs to tell Troy Smith he has to play better.

The Heisman Trophy-winner replacing future Hall of Famer Anthony Calvillo at quarterback completed fewer than half his passes as the Montreal Alouettes offence fired blanks in its CFL season opener last week in Calgary.

Smith hopes to start clicking with his receivers and moving the ball when the Alouettes (0-1) take on the B.C. Lions (0-1) in a bounce-back game for both teams at Percival Molson Stadium on Friday night.

"It falls on my shoulders as a quarterback," said Smith, who put up only 154 passing yards in a 29-8 loss to the Stampeders.

The Lions' 35-year-old pivot Kevin Glenn may be thinking the same. His team took an early 14-0 lead but he then threw four interceptions in a 27-20 loss to the Edmonton Eskimos. It was only the third time the Lions lost at home since 2011.

And this week the Lions go into the game with the virtually unknown Ryan Cave playing the key position on the offensive line, left tackle. Cave was rushed in this week after Andre Ramsey fractured an ankle. He had only two practices with his new team.

"Everyone knows there's a new guy on the offensive line who's had two days of practice, but he's a very intelligent guy, very football smart," said Glenn. "He's picked up the scheme and blocking assignments very quickly."

France vs. Germany

"There is a form of insouciance with the younger players. They're full of life, that's what you expect from a younger player. But it's also a question of quality."

France coach Didier Deschamps, explaining how his young club will deal with the pressure of playing powerhouse Germany in their World Cup quarter-final on Friday in Rio de Janeiro. Go to metronews.ca for more World Cup coverage.

Netherlands vs. Costa Rica

Costa Rica will be attempting to shut down the Dutch striking partnership of Arjen Robben and Robin van Persie, who are looking to get back on the scoring sheet after combining for six goals in their team's first two matches but failing to find the net since. The Netherlands are the top-scoring nation in Brazil with 12 goals through four games heading into Saturday's quarter-final in Salvador.

James has golden glow

World Cup scoring leader James Rodriguez controls the ball from the ground on Thursday in Fortaleza, Brazil. Rodriguez, whose five goals put him one ahead of Argentina's Lionel Messi, Brazil's Neymar and Germany's Thomas Mueller, will try to continue his magical tournament when Colombia takes on Brazil on Friday at Castelao Stadium.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
You have to accept what is taking place in your life, even though you may not approve of it. There are times when even an Aries must bend with the breeze and this is one of them.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You like to take initiative but today you will have to yield to those who do not share your sense of adventure. It may be frustrating but you can't change it so don't let it upset you.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
There will be times today when you could scream at people who refuse to see sense but keep quiet. Your way of doing things may indeed be best but no amount of threats will change their minds.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Don't worry if you upset someone today because you need to let others know you won't be pushed around. It may mean the end of a friendship but that's a small price to pay for securing your freedom.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Yes, of course, you have a right to say what you think but don't forget that others have the right to hit back if they so choose. If you clash with someone whose ideas are at odds with your own there could be fireworks today.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
What happens over the next 24 hours will bring you down to earth with a bump but maybe that's good. Your head has been up there in the clouds a bit too long. Come back to reality.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You have allowed certain people to get away with things they did not deserve to get away with. Now you must balance things out and see to it that they pay for their mistakes.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
If there are any loose ends in your affairs, you must deal with them over the next 24 hours. If you leave them flapping in the breeze they will trip you up sooner or later — likely sooner.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
This may be a difficult day for you but it can also be a day when you learn something to your advantage. If you are torn between the future and the past, choose the future.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
There is no point trying to force the pace because the Sun opposing Pluto in your sign won't let you — and will remind you where the real power lies. Also, focus on finishing what has been started.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The quality you most need today is patience. Come the weekend you will be able to start doing things again but over the next 24 hours control your urge to push ahead.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
For some reason you seem to be afraid of your own shadow — even though most things in your life are going well. Don't let fear hold you back from doing something creative today. Once you start your confidence will return. SALLY BROMPTON
